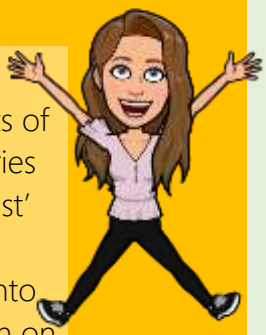
Year 3 Newsletter

Last week we were learning....



Last week, year 3 completed reading and maths assessments. They showed lots of determination and resilience during these activities. The children also took part in lots of World Book Day activities including describing their diorama scenes, listening to stories read to them and writing a book review based on 'The Dinosaur that Pooped the Past' by Tom Fletcher. On Friday, the children were all dressed up as their favourite book characters. It was lovely to see all of the effort put in by our families! Year 3 turned into scientists on Wednesday as they investigated how different surfaces affect the friction on a toy car.

This week we will be learning....

This week is Careers week! The children will be taking part in a range of career based activities that immerse the children in creative ways of thinking about their own paths and futures. We will be meeting some local businesses and discussing how Skills Builder helps support everyone no matter their age!

In our art lesson, the children will be learning about Ancient Egyptian Scrolls. We will find out how they are made, as well as what symbols are used on them. They will then be using this to make a modern-day version of papyrus style paper!

Don't Forget!

Please do not allow your children to wear earrings to school, due to health and safety reasons.

Four reads at home will ensure your children get ticks on their class reading chart and they will be working towards their next reward!
